THE MOTHERLESS.

God help and shield the motherless,
The stricken, bleeding dove—
For whom there gushes no rich fount
Of deep and deathless love!
The saddest title grief confers—
For who so lone as they,
Upon whose path a mother's love
Sheds not its holy ray.

No gentle form above them bends
To sooth the couch of pain—
No voice so fond as her's essays
To calm the feverish brain,
Oh, other tongues may whisper love,
In accents soft and mild;
But none on earth so pure as that
A mother bears her child!

Judge kindly of the motherless—
A weary lot is theirs,
And oft the heart the gayest seems,
A load of sorrow bears.
No faithful voice directs their steps,
Or bids them onward press,
"And if they gang a kennin wrang,"
God held the motherless!

And when the sinful and the frail,
The tempted and the tried,
Unspotted one! shall cross thy path,
Oh, spurn them not aside.
Thou knowest not what thou hadst been
With trials even less—
And when thy lips would vent reproach,
Think, they were motherless!

A blessing on the motherless,
Where'er they dwell on earth,
Within the home of childhood,
Or at the stranger's hearth?
Blue be the sky above their heads,
And bright be the sun within,
O God protect the motherless,
And keep them free from sin!

SPEECH OF HON. JAMES L. ORR,
OF SOUTH CAROLINA,
AT THE DEMOCRATIC CELEBRATION IN INDEPENDENCE SQUARE,
July 4, 1854.

Mr. President and Fellow-Citizens of Philadelphia:—The day we celebrate is consecrated in the affections of the American people, and this morning's dawn was ushered in by the booming of a thousand cannons. Who can tell but the melting rays of to-day's sun are typical of the fervent patriotism which glows in the American heart? To the remotest borders of this great confederacy, one unbroken stream of grateful gratulation pours out from this same American heart to the same Supreme Ruler of the Universe, who heard the prayers of our fathers, and who has preserved to their posterity the rich legacy left by the Revolution.

If the day brings so much of gladness to our countrymen everywhere, need it excite surprise that its return is enthusiastically hailed by the vast concourse of Philadelphians who throng this square. If there be any one portion above another of our countrymen who should hallow, revere, and celebrate the natal day of our liberties, it is the people of Philadelphia. [Cheers.] We are standing now within the shadow of Independence Hall. The same walls without that now echo my voice, seventy-eight years ago echoed within the patriotic words of Jefferson, and Franklin, and Hancock, and their noble associates. Your fathers then stood where you are now standing, when they mutually pledged to each other their fortunes and their sacred honors to support the declaration which has been read in your hearing. Welcome then, one and all, to this political Mecca. [Cheers.]

Time forbids that I should recount the causes, or dwell upon the history of the revolution.—It would be the repetition of "an oft told tale;" suffice it here to say, that the soul swells with admiration when contemplating the daring—the lofty courage of those brave and gallant men, who hazarded all that is dear in this life, save honor, in subscribing in yonder hall that declaration which irrevocably made them traitors to George the Third, or free, independent American citizens. It was here they passed the Rubicon to encounter the most powerful nation on earth in the field of battle—powerful in her wealth—powerful in her credit—powerful in her numbers and available resources—and above all, powful in a two hundred years prestige of invincibility against every foe, in every land, and upon every sea. They were bound to old England by ties numerous and strong, of affection and interest. It was the birth-place and home of their fathers; many of the glittering stars their ancestors wore were won doing battle under old England's flag.

Here was every consideration to influence their fear and their affections; but "with a firm reliance in Divine Providence," confident in the justice of their cause, and the oppressions of the exactions of the mother country pressing heavily upon their proud spirits, they resolved to make the land the "cemetry of Freemen" rather than continue it the "home of slaves." [Loud applause.] They redeemed their every pledge to the cause of freedom, and we are now the recipients of the priceless boon. Let Pennsylvanians be ever vigilant and watchful in preserving that whose purchase cost so much of tribulation and danger, so much of blood and treasure. You are the custodians now of that great citadel of liberty (pointing to Independence Hall.) All its triumphs, its memories, its portraits, its history, gratitude for the past, thanks for the present, and hopes for the future, exhort you to preserve and perpetuate that vestal flame which was kindled in 1776. Let it not go out here, if you would escape the execrations of posterity for infidelity in guarding your sacred trust.

The great end of the revolution was to secure civil and religious liberty. Nor did our ancestors misjudge its value in developing the resources physical, moral and intellectual of man.

Look to its civil results. Under republican government we have grown, and prospered, and expanded far beyond the most sanguine imagination of the most hopeful devotee of liberty. Our shores are washed by the two great oceans east and west. Nearly one half of the North American continent bears upon its generous bosom teeming millions of American citizens, who make their own laws and worship at their chosen shrines. From 3,000,000 we have swelled to 25,000,000. From poverty and ignorance and weakness we have grown rich, intelligent, and strong. Our sails whiten every sea, and our enterprise and energy penetrate into every land. No longer does the British lion strike terror into the hearts of our women and our children. We are now here equal in all the elements of natural greatness and here superior in every characteristic of personal liberty and political independence. Great Britain undertook to manage our local affairs by assuming the right to legislate for us, while we were colonies.

The Parliament assumed that they were better judges of our wants and necessities than our colonial legislatures. They undertook to regulate the domestic policy of their distant dependencies. They imposed duties upon tea, without consulting us, and in every manner asserted their rights to govern us. Our fathers, who had encountered the perils of the ocean, and the greater perils of a savage wilderness, who had fled from Europe to escape political and religious intolerance, could not long brook such an unjust assumption. They petitioned, importuned, remonstrated the British government without avail—they took their rights in their own keeping, and after a long and doubtful struggle, established a new fundamental article in the science of Government—the great American doctrine of the right of the people to govern themselves.—[Great cheering.] No tenet in political science has more thoroughly vindicated its wisdom, than this, and when brought into issue its orthodoxy has not been questioned for seventy-eight years until a few months past.

It is said by some, who have forgotten or renounced the teachings and principles of their fathers, now, that the people of Kansas and Nebraska are incapable of governing themselves, and that the Congress must assume the same guardianship over these distant territories as the Parliament claimed over the colonies. Where is the American feeling in the bosom of any man, who from fanatical zeal for the African slave, whose condition he cannot improve, is willing to renounce this great doctrine of our fathers? [Cheers.] Abolitionism and fanaticism mistake the heart of this country in supposing that when they cry out against slavery, that it will cause the people to repudiate the principles upon which the Government is based. [Cheers.] The country owes my distinguished friend who will follow me, the "little giant of the great west," Senator Douglass [immense applause,] a debt of gratitude for his powerful and successful advocacy of this principle I have been discussing, and for its triumphant vindication in the Kansas-Nebraska bill.

With all the misrepresentation which has been poured out upon that measure, the people are now beginning to understand truly its provisions: and its greatest principle—the one so fiercely assailed by Whigs and Abolitionists—is the very principle for which our fathers fought the Revolution. Will you now take the side of the British Parliament?

The people of Kansas and Nebraska have had conferred upon them, by Congress, the right to regulate their own domestic concerns according to their own wishes and inclinations. Is it right? Who will say it is wrong? Who knows best what are the wants of our fellow-citizens in the valley of the Kansas, or the upper Missouri, the representatives they elect to their own territorial legislature or the Congress of the United States, where not a single member, perhaps, has made a foot-print in Kansas or Nebraska, and which would most likely legislate wisely for them, the territorial Legislature or Congress?—The statement of the question carries the answer with it. If a Pennsylvanian now has the right to make his own laws here, what is there in the atmosphere of Kansas, when he removes there, rendering him less competent to do the same thing there? This right conferred by Congress on the territories is subject to but one limitation which all concede is just, and that is, that their Legislation shall not contravene the Constitution of the United States, a limitation that exists as to the States, and should in the territories.

As this is a Democratic celebration, it will not be improper that I should say that I felt a high pride in seeing nearly all of your Democratic representatives in Congress sustaining the bill, and maintaining that great principle first asserted on this hallowed spot seventy-eight years ago by Benjamin Franklin, the philosopher and patriot of Pennsylvania, and his compeers. It was becoming in the representatives of the Democracy of Pennsylvania to vindicate the principles which you have so long professed, by coming boldly forward and sustaining the bill with enlightened wisdom and manly independence. (Cheers.)

But the revolution not only secured civil liberty by deposing the authority of the King and making the people political sovereigns, but it established another great American principle which has exercised a potent influence on the moral nature of our race, it established religious liberty—it separated Church and State—it denied the right of the former any political power as an organization. It said to the Puritans, the Cavaliers and the Hugenots, who had fled religious intolerance and proscription, here you may worship according to the dictates of your conscience, and non shall make you afraid.—The timid feared that it would lead to infidelity, irreligion and anarchy, but time has proven its wisdom. The support of the ministry, the execution of church buildings and all outlays for spiritual objects is left to the volition of the citizen. He can give or withhold. The law recognizes no sect or denomination, all are equal and equally protected. How has it worked? We have as moral a nation as any upon the globe. We have as many professors of religion for our population. Our churches are more numerous and as well furnished as in any other country, and piety and religion nowhere has more reverence and respect than in the United States.

Mr. Jefferson, whose name is inseparably united, and must so continue through time, with free government—he who penned that great declaration—was president of the United States—the father of the Democratic party, and the great apostle of republicanism—he who spent a long and eventful life in the arduous service of his country, when the weight of years pressed sorely upon his tottering frame, in the quiet solitude of his own Monticello, calmly reviewing his own history, he selected three great achievements to carry his name to posterity, and directed this inscription upon the granite obelisk that should mark the spot where he lies:—"Thomas Jefferson, the author of the declaration of Independence, the author of the Statute of Virginia, establishing religious freedom, and the father of the University of Virginia." [Cheers.]

He considered the establishment of religious freedom, an achievement worthy to be classed by the side of the declaration of independence. He knew the enormities growing out of a union of church and State. He knew that such a junction was at war with personal liberty as well as with true religion, and time has shown that the State prospers best independent of religion, and religion prospers best independent of the State. We must keep them separate, confine each to its sphere, if our future is to continue bright and prosperous as our past.

There has recently been some commotion on the political boards, growing out of, it is said, a new secret politico-religious association. I "Know Nothing" of its faith or its hopes.—(Cheering and laughter among the Democrats.)

It is supposed that its purpose is to supplant the Catholic religion and to ostracise every person who was not born upon American soil, and every one whose father was not born here. Now this is a different policy from the one our fathers pursued; they invited here every foreigner to our shores, and Patrick Henry was indignant when it was proposed to exclude such as turned tories even and fled the country during the revolution. It is assumed by this association that the Priests of the Catholic Church exercise political influence over their members.—This may or may not be so. I do not profess to know. I have no affinities with the Catholic Church. I was reared under the teachings of the shorter catechism and the Westminster confession of faith. There are not fifty Catholics or one hundred naturalized or unnaturalized foreigners in my congressional district, and hence my perfect exemption from any personal or political considerations in forming a judgment with reference to this new association.

Suppose it true that the priests meddle in politics, we all unite in condemning it, for we think Church and State should be kept separate; but this new organization proceeds to a politico-religious association, secret, holding its meetings clandestinely, to counteract the priests. The end then is to justify the means, but two wrongs will not make one right. The "Know Nothings" do the very thing which they complain of the priests for doing. I do not perceive any difference between Catholic Jesuitism and Protestant Jesuitism—both are intoletant. But in this country I protest in the name of our ancestors, who were all foreigners, in the name of the Constitution, in the name of liberty itself, against a secret political organization which fears to avow its principles, which shrinks from their discussion and which makes its members, by secret pledges, spies in every household. There is no excuse in this country for secret political societies. Every measure in the Federal and State Legislatures undergoes public scrutiny and debate. No citizen is or ought to be afraid to avow his political sentiments, and the secrecy which marks the proceedings of this order shows that they do or say somethings which they are afraid or ashamed for the world to know. It is time that the eyes of the country should be turned towards them, and their scheme, discountenanced until they cast off the veil. It is violative of the genius and spirit of our government, and will bear bitter fruits for our country if it is not supplanted.

It is said that their forces in elections—political elections—where all go together, regardless of principle and consistency, practice a guerrilla war, fighting on the side promising the pay. If this be true, what is their standard of morality? I call the attention of my Democratic friends, however, to the fact that in all the municipal elections that I have observed where the "Know Nothings" have triumphed, it has always been a Whig elected, where the office was one of any importance or real value.

Let not Democrats, then, be deluded into the organization, or they will find themselves embraced in the arms of Whiggery, Native Americanism, and of all the other isms that infest the land. (Cheers.

There can be but two great parties in the country. These temporary organizations may, for a brief while, attain the positions of balance of power parties, but they soon lose it; and parties, to be permanent, must be divided on principle. The division here is between the strict and latitudinous constructionists, between State rights and Federalism, and it is now too late in her history for me to appeal to Pennsylvania to know which side she takes. She has been true to strict construction, enconomy and State rights, and never will trail the old Democratic banner in the dust.

The Whigs have beaten but never vanquished you, and it behooves you to buckle on your armor once more and strike for your principles. The eyes of your sister States are upon you, and we shall look anxiously to see you roll up your accustomed majority for Bigler, elect true Democrats to Congress and your Legislature, and carry out the principles which have so greatly promoted the honor and glory of the wholy country. [Long continued cheering.]

THE MOTHER'S DEFENCE.

A TALE OF THE FRONTIER WAR.

"My husband's rifle!" she shouted springing to her feet, and rushing across the cabin, she tore the weapon and accoutrements from the wall. But on trying the piece with the ramrod it proved to be unloaded. She thrust her hand into the pouch, but it contained nothing but musket balls, which her husband had purchased a few days before, to run into bullets suitable for his rifle. The powder horn was full, but of what use was the powder without the ball? Dropping the weapon she rung her hands in despair. Suddenly an idea struck her—she seized one of the bullets, placed it between her teeth, and by a tremendous exertion bit it in two. Dashing a charge of powder into the barrel, she rammed down one of the fragments, primed and cocked the piece, and the next moment its muzzle protruded through the aperture, and covered the body of the chief now advancing at the head of the party towards the house. The quick eye of the savage caught the glimmer of the rifle sight as the sun fell upon it, and he stooped, but before he had time to make a rush, Miriam's finger pressed the trigger. When the puff of smoke from the distance had cleared away, she saw him clutching in the air in the vain effort to recover himself. Before the other Indians, who seemed paralyzed by the unexpected catastrophe, could afford him any assistance, he threw his hands above his head, and whirling quickly around fell upon his face.

A shout of triumph burst from the lips of Miriam as she saw the effects of the avenging shot, and then withdrawing from the loop-hole, she commenced re-loading the rifle.

The Indians remained motionless for a few seconds, transfixed with astonishment, and then lifted the body of their chief, withdrew to a respectful distance from the cabin, and the inmates half believed their peril was over. But they were deceived.

After getting out of gun-shot, the savages clustered together and appeared to be in close conversation. At the expiration of the pow wow, having apparently agreed upon their plan of action, the whole gang took open order and dashed at full run, with wild yells, toward the dwelling.

As the foremost came up, Miriam Cook, who was now stationed at another loop-hole, again discharged her rifle, and the unlucky Wyandott shot through both legs, dropped in his tracks with an involuntary shriek of agony. The others kept on, and reaching the cabin, six of them clambered on the roof, while the other five commenced firing on the doors and cutting openings in the logs. Those on the roof quickly kindled a fire on the shingles, which were soon in a blaze. The destruction of the cabin and its inmates now seemed inevitable.

There was a hogshead half full of water in the house. Miriam, bucket in hand, mounted the loft, and Hope and Alice supplied her with water from below; by which she contrived to extinguish the flames as fast as they broke out, while she herself enveloped and almost suffocated by steam and smoke, was invisible to the assailant. At length the water was exhausted, and one of the Indians observing that the efforts of the besieged party were slackening ventured to poke his head through one of the holes that had been burned in the roof, to see how the land lay. The undaunted Miriam was standing within a few feet of the opening, and at the instant she whirled the empty bucket around his head, and whirling it with a swing of her arm, struck him directly in the forehead with a sharp edge of the stave. She heard the bones crash and the victim groan, a moment after he was drawn away by his campanions, three of whom descended from the roof, bearing him in their arms.

Miriam now thought she heard the two remaining savages tearing the upper logs off the the chimney, and presuming they intended to effect an entrance that way, she ran down stairs to prepare for them. "The feather bed! the feather bed!" she shouted as she reached the lower room, and this much prized article in a frontier, man's inventory of household chattles, was quickly brought forth and thrown in the huge fire place. By this time one of the Indians had fairly got into the chimney. The savage made an effort to scramble up again, but the punget effluvia of the feathers overcame him, and he fell heavily on the hearth stone. In the meantime Miriam had grasped the rifle and held it ready for his reception. Scarcely had he touched the floor, when the iron-bound point of the breech crushed through his skull. The other who had caught a whiff of the vapor in time to avoid a like fate, hastily descended from the roof.

Four of the thirteen Indians were now killed, but these casualties only added new fury to the remainder. They well knew that the cabin was occupied by women only—and nothing could be more degrading in the eyes of swarthy warriors than to be baffled by a parcel of squaws. They now furiously assailed the door with tomahawks. To this proceeding the inmates could offer no resistance. In striking the savage who had fallen down the chimney, Miriam had broken the lock of her husband's rifle, the only one they had, and now handing the weapon to her sister-in-law, she armed herself with the axe of young McAndre, which stood in the corner, and prepared herself for the last extremity. Alice betook herself to a very formidable weapon, the slaughter knife of the establishment, and thus armed, the three women ranged themseves on either side of the door, determined to sell their lives as dearly as possible.

In half an hour the Indians had nearly cut two planks out of the door, beneath the bar, a space just suffucient for a man to force his body through in a stooping posture. They brought heavy pieces from the adjacent pile, and using them as battering ram's soon beat in the weakened portion of the door, and at the same time driving the articles which had been placed against the door into the middle of the room.—Taught caution by the losses they had sustained, they did not immediately attempt to enter through the aperture, but thrusting in and crossing their rifles, discharged them into the house. In this they had a double design—that of killing or maiming some of the occupants, and getting in under cover of the smoke.

Before the deafening sounds had ceased the feather crested head of the Wyandott warrior parted the smoke cloud that had obscured the interior; but, as he rose from a stooping posture, on entering, Miriam's axe descended with tremendous force, cutting through the collar bone into the chest. He dropped with a wild cry—half defiance, half agony. Another savage followed—and another—each to sink in turn under the axe of the courageous matron. The fifth she missed—but instantly grappled with him and held him powerless in her arms while Alice plunged the knife in his bosom. Of the next two that entered, one was disabled by a severe blow on his head from Hope's rifle, and the other very nearly decapitated by Miriam's well directed axe.

Of the thirteen bronzed warriors who had left their war tribe for their war path a few days before, only two were unwounded and capable of service, and they, seized with a panic at the havoc among their companions by the "long knife squaws," abandoned the siege and fled back to the village. To the wounded left behind no quarter was given. To have spared them would have been treason to the dead.—Miriam's axe and the long knife of Alice made short work of them, and the duty fulfilled, the family lost no time in proceeding to Frankfort.

ROMANTIC MARRIAGE.

A few evenings ago, as the cars of the Carrollton Railroad were approaching the city, a little girl about three years old ran in front of the engine, and stopped on the center of the track. The brakeman attempted to stop the engine as soon as the child was perceived, but on and on hurried the iron monster, and just as it was about to crush into the earth the beauteous victim which thus so innocently braved its coming, the strong hand of an athletic young man was stretched forth, and, at the hazard of another life, the child was saved.

Loud was the shout of applause from the few who witnessed the daring deed, and in triumph the young man bore the child away, and delivered it to its mother. An attempt to describe a mother's feelings on such an occasion, would be more than vain. She felt as a mother only can feel, when the darling of the heart—her only child—is rescued from the very jaws of death; and with an eloquence no words can convey, she looked and spoke her thanks.

The mother was a widow, young and fair as the incarnation of a poet's dream: and, withal, she was blessed with no little of this world's goods. Of course she was grateful to the preserver of her child's life, and, as he was poor, she offered to bestow upon him a goodly largess. He, however, refused to accept any reward for doing what he considered to be his duty, and so the matter for the time rested.

Since then an intimacy has sprung up between the young man and the grateful widow, and the result was, that yesterday they went together to Mobile, where the widow's name at the Hymeneal altar is to be changed, and the young man is to become not only the protector, but the step-father of the child he saved.

May the joys of the twain increase, and their days be many.—N. O. True Delta.

Stick to one Pursuit.

There cannot be a greater error than to be frequently turning about from one's business. If a man will look around and notice who have got rich and who have not, among those he started life with, he will find that the successful have generally stuck to some one pursuit.

Two lawyers, for example, begin to practice at the same time. One devotes his whole mind to his profession; lays in slowly a stock of legal learning, and waits patiently, it may be for years, till he gains an opportunity to show his superiority. The other, tiring of such slow work, dashes into politics. Generally, at the end of twenty years, the latter will not be worth a penny, while the former will have a handsome practice, and count his tens of thousands in bank stock or mortgages.

Two clerks attain a majority simultaneously. One remains with his former employers, or at least in the same line of trade, at first on a small salary, then on a larger, until finally, if he is meritorious, he is taken into partnership. The other thinks it beneath him to fill a subordinate position, now that he has become a man, and accordingly starts in some other business on his own account, or undertakes a new firm in the old line of trade. Where does he end? Often in insolvency, rarely in riches. To this every merchant can testify.

A young man is bred a mechanic. He acquires a distaste for his trade, however, thinks it is a tedious way to get ahead, and sets out for the West or California. But, in most cases, the same restless, discontented and speculative spirit that carried him away at first, renders continuous application at any one place irksome to him; and so he goes wandering about the world, a sort of semi-civilized Arab, really a vagrant in character, and sure to die insolvent. Meanwhile his fellow apprentice, who has staid at home, practising economy and working steadily at his trade, has grown comfortable in his circumstances, and is even perhaps a citizen of mark.

There are men of ability in every walk of life, who are notorious for not getting along. Usually it is because they never stick to any one business. Just when they have mastered one pursuit and are on the point of making money, they change it for another, which they do not understand; and, in a little while, what little they are worth is lost forever. We know scores of such persons. Go where you will, you will generally find that the men who have failed in life, are those who never stuck to one thing long. On the other hand, your prosperous man, nine times out of ten, has always stuck to one pursuit.

SHOCKING AND FATAL AFFAIR.—A dreadful accident occurred on Thursday afternoon, in the vicinity of Tenth and Jefferson streets, resulting in the death of two men and the injuring of a third. It appears that Mr. John Kelly, the owner of a cess pool in the rear of his dwelling, at that place, had determined to sink a well adjoining to it. The well had been dug out to the proper depth, when Mr. K. descended into it for the purpose of making some further excavations when the walls of the cess pool caved in, burying him beneath the mass of filth, and suffocating him instantly. Mr. James Lawlor, who was employed upon the work, immediately descended into the well to extricate Mr. Kelly, when he was overcome by the torrent of matter streaming from the cess pool, and in a few moments, he met the same fate.

Another man, whose name we were unable to learn, immediately rushed into the well for the purpose of saving one or both of the unfortunate men, but he was likewise overcome with the foul air, and would have inevitably perished but for the efforts of several men who were attracted to the place, who dragged him out in a state of insensibility. After considerable trouble and prompt medical attention, he was restored to consciousness. The bodies of the deceased were taken out soon afterwards and conveyed to their respective residences. They were both married men. Kelly leaves a wife and Lawlor a wife and six children to mourn their sad bereavement.

SUITS FOR DAMAGES AGAINST RAILROADS.—In the Superior Court of Baltimore, as we see by the Patriot, the parties injured on the Baltimore and Susquehanna Railroad by the collision on the 4th July, as well as those who have lost friends from the same cause, have already commenced entering suits against the company for damages. Mr. MALCOLM, council for MADISON JEFFERS, who was dreadfully injured himself, and had his son killed at his side, has entered two suits, damages being laid at $30,000 in each case. Mr. KING, counsel for Mrs. JOHNSON, who lost a member of her family, has entered a suit in the name of the State of Maryland, use of ELIZABETH, SARAH ELIZABETH and Jos. H. JOHNSON, against the Company; damages being being laid at $20,000. It is stated that the company have settled several cases by compromise with the parties injured on the occasion.

Mysterious Death—Suspected Poisoning.

For several days past, rumors of a painful character have been in circulation in reference to the mysterious illness of Mrs. Ellen Urbon, a daughter of Mr. C. Marvin, No. 50 Warren street. It seems that nearly two years ago Mrs. E., then aged 16, was married to a German music teacher, Alexander Urbon, in this city, and subsequently went with him to Le Roy, Genesee county, to reside. Last winter she was delivered of a child, and soon after was attacked with a nursing sore mouth. Her system was much reduced by these causes. Some six weeks ago, it is alleged, she was suddenly taken much worse, and complained of symtoms that led to a belief that she had been poisoned by her husband—the poison supposed to have been administered by him in some lemonade that he insisted upon procuring and giving to her.

About three weeks ago, she was brought home to die—it being apparent that she was rapidly sinking. Her husband remained at Le Roy, and about ten days since, having been sent for, he came here, staid a few hours, returned to Le Roy, told persons there that he was accused of having poisoned his wife, and by them was advised to come back here and stay till her decease. He expressed his determination to do so—packed up his property and left that village. He has not been here, nor been heard of since. Previous to his departure, he told a person that his wife was going to die, and mentioned what he desired to have done with his child. To Dr. Hoyt he stated that he would be or was suspected of having given her poison, and said—"Doctor I want you to be on my side."

On Wednesday morning, Mrs. Urbon died, having suffered dreadfully for many days. This afternoon a post mortem examination of the body was made, when indications were discovered which greatly strengthen the suspicion that her death was caused by some extraneous irritant introduced into the stomach. The stomach has been preserved, and is to undergo a chemical examination. The body was almost bloodless.—Syracuse Republican.

SINGULAR MODE OF INFLICTING VENOM.—A Mr. G. Lynch has suffered intensely during the week from the effects of venomous matter thrown into his face, last Monday, by an insect called the armadillo. This worm was lying upon the ground, coiled up, and he, perceiving it, held down his head and spirted some tobacco juice upon it, when it immediately threw up its tail, emitting at the same time a small quantity of juicy matter, which lodged upon Mr. Lynch's face, when the flesh around the eyes instantly commenced to swell, and the pain was so intense that it produced temporary aberration of mind. The venom, however, was speedily extracted by a physician, and we are happy to state that he is now rapidly recovering.

GOVERNOR:

HON. WILLIAM BIGLER.

JUSTICE OF THE SUPREME COURT:

HON. JEREMIAH S. BLACK.

CANAL COMMISSIONER:

COL. HENRY S. MOTT.

☞ A YOUNG MAN, of unexceptionable morals, and agreeable disposition, between the age of 17 and 18 years, will be taken at this office, to learn the Printing Business, on favorable terms.

☞ We invite especial attention to the speech of Hon. JAMES L. ORR, which will be found on the first page of the Gazette of to-day. It was delivered in Philadelphia on the 4th of July, and is a production which cannot fail to reach the feeling as well as the understanding of every man who reads it.

JUDGE POLLOCK AND THE WHIGS.

☞ The letter of Judge POLLOCK to certain gentlemen in Sullivan County has been aptly termed "a legal and political curiosity." Its legal doctrines and its political bearing certainly present a difficult problem. it contains a variety of distinct and dogmatical assertions, which, unfortunately for the author, are not consistent with each other.

For instance, he assumes that an act of Congress, passed in 1820, fixing the Missouri line, should and has the power to determine the local policy of the territories, so far as relates to slavery, regardless of the will of the people or the power of the local government. In this he clearly recognizes the right of Congress to legislate on the subject; and we wish the reader to bear this important fact in mind.

In another part of his letter he says, "Congress has no power to establish, directly or indirectly, by positive act, or by permission, under the plea of non-intervention, slavery in any free territory in the United States." This is simply denying to Congress any power to legislate on the subject, and is in direct conflict with the preceding position. We agree, that Congress has no power to "establish by positive act salvery in a free territory." But we do not agree that Congress has not got the power to do any thing on the subject—to adopt the principle of non-intervention. We do not agree that Congress cannot permit the people of a territory to do as they please on the question. The only way, therefore, that Congress could carry out Mr. P's doctrine would be to preserve the territories a wilderness to keep the people out of them. But what is still more singular, Mr. P., in the same paragraph, alleges that another act of Congress, similar to that of 1820, or the same act re-instated, would "necessarily exclude slavery from those territories, and the unconditional manumission of all slaves then there could not be regarded as a legal or moral wrong to any party."—Here he claims for Congress the highest degree of legislative authority, and avows a doctrine antagonistic to the teachings of the preceding paragraph.—We can see no possible way of reconciling these positions with each other. Surely Judge POLLOCK will not contend that the power to create and to destroy the institution are not identical—that the power to create may proceed from one source and that to destroy from another. That Congress could establish and not abolish the institution, or, vise verse.

But he says that Congress cannot permit slavery "under the plea of non-intervention." Henry Clay and Daniel Webster thought otherwise, for they both voted for the laws organizing the territories of Utah and New Mexico, containing precisely this principle of non-intervention in reference to slavery.

Again he says, "slavery can have no legal existence in those territories either by act of Congress or under the false pretence of popular sovereignty."

The inquiry is at once suggested to the mind, then why all the clamor against the Nebraska bill? If slavery can have no legal existence in those territories, under the laws as they now stand, of course it will not go there. But the Whigs and Abolitionists say it can and will go there. The Whig Press say that Congress has legislated slavery into those territories. Mr. Pollock says Congress has no such power. Who is right, the Whigs or Pollock? He says that if "slavery enters those territories it will be there without authority of Constitutional law, and in violation of all law." The Whigs and Abolitionists generally assume that the law of Congress has authorized it to go into these territories. It is clear that some body is befogged. But, in all candor, we would enquire, what does Mr. Pollock mean by assuming that popular sovereignty may be a false pretence. Surely he does not mean to say that the will of the people of a territory or a State expressed in reference to the institutions under which they live, is a false pretension—that it is an assumption of power which they do not possess. We are unwilling to attribute to him such an unjust sentiment, and yet his language will bear no other construction. If the power to establish slavery, or abolish it, is not in the people and the local government, it can have no existence on the face of the earth, and all clamor on the subject should cease. Mr. P. denies the power of Congress and the pretensions of the people, and thus settles the whole question that slavery cannot extend into the territories of Kansas and Nebraska. Hereafter, therefore, when the Whigs give vent to their virtuous indignation on this subject, we shall promptly interpose the doctrine of their own candidate against their ravings. They will not thank Mr. Pollock for thus spiking their only gun.

But we think Mr. P. was peculiarly unfortunate in assuming that popular sovereignty might be "a false pretence." It was that power which abolished slavery in Pennsylvania, and yet the authority has never once been disputed. If it should decide in October that some other man than himself should be Governor he would not contend that the pretence was not real. If it should demand a prohibitory liquor Law, will he say it is a false pretence. Popular sovereignty can never be a false pretence. It is just that absolute sovereignty which can make or unmake local institutions—can accept one public man and reject another. It is the legitimate source of all governmental power, simply the principle of self-goverament, the basis of all our republican institutions. There was a time when British Statesmen and American Tories regarded this doctrine as "a false pretence," but we had hardly supposed, that at this time in our history, any man could be found hardy enough to declare such a sentiment.

But we have done with this rich letter for the present. It is one of two or three we have seen from the same source, and we think they indicate too clearly that Mr. P. is willing to "stoop to conquer," and contain some evidence that he is a "KNOW NOTHING" on some subjects.

☞ GOV. BIGLER visited Schellsburg on Tuesday last, and spent a few hours very pleasantly in conversing with the citizens of that place. He was courteously called upon by gentlemen of both parties. Mr. FRAZER served up a dinner on the occasion that would have done honor to any Hotel in the County.

The Whigs and Adopted Citizens!

☞ Necessity is said to be the mother of all invention. The Whig party, in its recent efforts to gain power, would seem to furnish a verification of this saying. To the necessities which surround them, may, perhaps, to some extent, be attributed the rare specimens of inventions and expedients which they have recently presented to the country. Dishonored in their past professions, and ashamed of all their former measures, they are now countenancing the doctrines and courting the co-operation of the Native, Abolition, and Know Nothing factions, with the vain hope of gaining power. They have resorted to the dangerous, and mischievous expedient of tampering to national and sectarian prejudices—arraying one class of professing christians against another—of sowing the seed of intolerance and persecution, which, in other ages of the world, have produced the bitterest fruits that have ever been presented to the lips of man, save only that presented to Eve by the serpent.

Two years since they had especial affection for the foreigner and for members of the Catholic Church, and vainly attempted to cajole and flatter this class of people to support the Whig candidates, without reference to their political sentiments. But this expedient failed. These people voted in accordance with their previously conceived notions of political affairs, and the Whig candidates were rejected. Now they are about to try another invention.—They have allied themselves with the Know Nothings and Natives, and foresworn the proscription of both the former classes from civil place. In the election of Mayor CONRAD, of Phila., we have the first fruits of this coalition, and, in his inaugural address, we have their first edict against all citizens not native born. The adopted citizen is distinctly told in that document that nothwithstanding the guarantees of the Constitution, he shall not be permitted to hold office in this country. Not even the humble station of police man.

Let us contemplate, for a moment, the practical workings of this unjust and anti-republican doctrine in our own community. The accident of birth is to be a test for civil office, and every citizen not native born must be proscribed. Under this doctrine many, very many, of as good citizens as we have in Bedford county would be degraded. For instance, Messrs. NICHOLAS LYONS, JACOB BOLLINGER, ROBERT FYAN, JONATHAN FEICHNER, MICHAEL BANNON, WM. STAHL, VAL. WYANT, JOHN J. LUTHER, JOS. GONDON, JAMES PRICE, GEO. VONSTEIN, EWD. KERR, WALTER BROWN, Rev. J. MCELHENY, GEO. HYNSLING, JOHN RUDDLESDIN, and hundreds of others that might be mentioned had we room, all citizens of high respectability, with all their affections, interests, and hopes centered in our country. With no other country to love, and no other institutions to obey, they are Americans, true Americans, by adoption, faith, affection, and hope; yet, with all this they could not hold any office under this strange dogma of Whiggery. How shall the sons and daughters, and grand children, of these respectable citizens brook the imputation thus cast upon their parents? How shall they relish a doctrine that breaks the pledge of the constitution to their fathers? How shall they tolerate a party that proscribes their ancestors because of the place of their birth, and assigns to them an inferior and degraded position in society?

Office, honor, and emoluments, these valuable citizens whom we have named, do not seek, and in this regard they could bid defiance to the intolerant demagogues who have started this new test; but it is the implied disgrace and humiliation—it is because they are to be set apart as a degraded class of people who should not be trusted with civil office—not even the humble position of police man, that they have just cause to complain. It is this, indeed, far more than the loss of civil office, that wounds their pride and excites their indignation. They have filled the conditions of the Constitution—have became citizens—have felled the forest—cultivated the soil—and made the wilderness to bloom as the rose. They have paid the taxes and fought the battles of the Country—have worshiped God according to the dictates of conscience—thanked him for the blessings incident to our Republican Government—for the blessings of civil and religious liberty—and prayed for the continuance of all these. And shall we now, in their ripened years, with many of their locks whitened for the grave, break with them the plighted faith of the Constitution? Shall its promise of political and religious freedom to the oppressed of all nations, become a by-word and scoff—"the word of promise to the ear to be broken to the hope." We say no. The people say no. And an all wise Providence will stay the wrong.

GOV. BIGLER.

☞ His Excellency, WILLIAM BIGLER, arrived in Bedford on last Friday evening, and took lodgings at Maj. DAVIS' Hotel. On Saturday, in the absence of any arrangement, several hundred of our citizens called to pay their respects to him, and had a pleasant interview. The bold and manly ground taken by the Governor, (in his recent letter,) in defence of his official acts and the great principles of the Democratic Party, has inspired a lively confidence throughout the Commonwealth, and Democrats feel a commendable pride in having such a standard-bearer to lead them to certain and overwhelming victory. Gov. BIGLER has no concealments on any subject affecting the public interests. He is ready, willing, and anxious to speak to the people face to face, and to meet any charges that our opponents may prefer against his administration. He is also ready to defend the CONSTITUTION against all encroachments.

"Polk a Better Tariff Man than Clay."

☞ The Philadelphia News complains that the "Democrats claimed Polk as a better Tariff man than Clay." Experience having emphatically developed the fact that the Tariff of 1816 is a better Tariff than that of 1812, of course, Polk was the best Tariff man. The Whigs having bartered their bantling of 1842, for the principles of a party which profess to "KNOW NOTHING," the News ought to be ashamed to torture them by thus raking up its ashes!

☞ We invite attention to the advertisement of Mr. TOMLIN, Principal of the Cassville Seminary, which will be found in the Gazette of to-day, and take pleasure in saying that the Institution over which he presides is worthy of a generous support. Mr. T. is well adapted to the charge entrusted to his care, and we hope he will receive liberal encouragement from this quarter.

A VERY SAD STORY.—The Edwardsville (Ill.) Enquirer, of the 14th, tells the following, as sad a story as we have lately heard:—We have just heard of a sorrowful incident—the effects of a fright. A colored woman, named Bruner, who, with her husband, lived some six miles from this place, was supposed to know where some stolen property was concealed. She denied all knowledge of the property, whereupon her accusers told her that unless she told the truth they would take her from the house and hang her. She still stoutly denied knowing anything of the property, and appeared much frightened. On their repeating the threat to hang her, she fainted away and died in a short time afterward. She was enciente at the time. Since then, her husband, through grief from her loss, has become a maniac. Such an occurrence should prove a warning in future as to how far coercion is carried towards defenceless women.

☞ Col. THOS. J. KEENAN, the able and accomplished Editor of the Pittsburg Daily Union, spent a day or two at the Bedford Springs last week. He gives encouraging accounts of our political prospects in the West.

☞ Our valued friend, Hon. JOHN C. KNOX, of the Supreme Court, arrived at the Bedford Springs a few days since.

☞ Hon. P. C. SHANNON, of Pittsburg, made many friends in our place during his stay at the Springs. He is a noble specimen of a true Democrat and accomplished gentleman, and is a favorite wherever known.

☞ Mr. WM. CESSNA desires us to say that he does not wish to be considered a candidate for County Commissioner. No man in Bedford County is better qualified to fill the office than Mr. CESSNA.

NEWS FROM EUROPE.

The arrival of the Arabia brings news that the Turks, emboldened by the withdrawal of the Russian forces from before Silistria, have crossed the Danube at Giurgevo, and also taken possession of the islands in the river near that place. The Turkish forces, to the number of 40,000, were under the immediate command of Omer Pacha. By this movement the Russians were totally defeated in the Wallachian territory. It is now clear that the Turks have determined to push the campaign on the offensive principle, and, as the first division of the Anglo-French army is within supporting distance, will urge the Russians to a general battle if possible.

It is reported that the Czar has issued counter orders, and that the Russian army will not evacuate the Principalities. This view receives confirmation from the fact that Gen. Gortschakoff, with an army of 30,000 men, is advancing, by forced marches, against the Turks at Giurgevo. In the face of all these hostile movements, the Continent is filled with reports of negotiations between the great Powers. A meeting of Austria, Prussia, France and England, it is said, is shortly to be held, for the purposes of considering the Russian propositions. This will not, however, prevent Austria from entering Wallachia, which she will do immediately, but without formally declaring war. The German governments, as well as the King of Wurtemburg, are reported to be favorable to the Austro-Prussian league, with a view of preserving the balance of power in the East.

The following extracts from three of the leading London Journals, will show the opinion entertained there with reference to the state of affairs on the Continent. The European Times of the 15th ult. says:

We have waited the whole week in daily expectation that some official communication would be made of the precise terms of the reply made by the Czar to the Austrian summons and the Prussian entreaty to evacuate the Principalities, but, up to the moment we sit down to write, we are altogether in the dark respecting the substance of this important despatch.

If it be really true that the Czar insists upon the allies withdrawing their forces as the condition of his retiring from Moldavia, and that he refuses to allow the Allies to interfere in the religions question of the Protectorate, which he pretends is an affair between him and the Porte alone, it is plain to the merest Tyro in politics that the state of the Czar's mind is precisely in statu quo ante.

Our own impression is, that Austria will at least occupy Wallachia, according to her promise, but there cannot be a doubt that Prussia is resorting to every species of artifice to gain time, and evade the performance of her pledge to take up arms. We are, however, quite satisfied that when the German powers discover that France and England have resolutely determined to humble the Czar, and bring him to terms, they will, however reluctantly, join the alliance effectively. If Prussia plays false, she will instantly lose her Westphalian provinces, and a frightful general war will ensue, in which she is certain to be the loser.

The Morning Chronicle, of the same date, throws out the following views with reference to the present aspect of the political and military state of the Eastern question:

A great change has taken place within the last few days. The Prussian Government complained that Austria had singly taken a step which might probably lead to hostilities. Hints and menaces have had the effect of checking the intended movement of the Austrian army on the left bank of the Danube. It is not likely, however, that the enemy will eventually derive any substantial benefit from the intervention of his devoted adherent. There can be little doubt that an ultimatum has at last been forwarded by Austria to St. Petersburg. When the Austrian troops finally march, it will be their business to dislodge the invader. The pause in the Austrian movements facilitated the recent change in the stratgetical disposition of the enemy.

It is scarcely possible to believe that the Russian army, which has never yet succeeded against an equal number of Turks, will be able to resist the best soldiers of England and France; and a victory in Wallachia, while it would probably decide the neutral governments of Europe, might perhaps tend materially to shorten the war.

The London Times, which is usually accurate upon all matters, after carefully weighing the intelligence, enunciates the inference that another great and sudden change has taken place in the movements and position of the contending armies, similar to those surprising and unforeseen incidents which have hitherto marked the vicissitudes of this campaign. It then continues:

A few weeks ago the Russians were known to be in full retreat. The siege of Silistria had been raised on the 23d of June, and the large army engaged in that operation retired across the Danube with so much precipitation that they left their battering train behind them. Wallachia was said to be evacuated; the head-quarters of the Russian army were withdrawn from Bucharest to Fokschai and Jassy; the Austrians were preparing to take peaceable possession of Wallachia; and the only question seemed to be upon the facts then known to the world, whether the Russians were about to concentrate their forces in Moldavia, or to retire altogether, as the Moniteur asserted, behind the Pruth. We have no reason to suppose that this intelligence was erroneous or these inferences incorrect; but it is evident either that fresh orders have subsequently arrived from St. Petersburg, or that different measures have been adopted since Prince Paskiewitsch has laid down his command. Possibly the conclusion of the treaty of the 14th of June, between Austria and the Porte, may have led to more active measures. Certain it is, however, that the evacuation of Wallachia has not gone on as was expected, while the Turks have assumed the offensive on the left bank of the river.

☞ Final Adjournment of Congress.—Both Houses of Congress have resolved to finally adjourn on Friday next, the 4th of August, and unless the resolution is re-considered and the time altered, there remain but four days of the present session. The appropriation bills will, no doubt, pass within the time agreed upon, and the Homestead and Graduation Land Bill, as returned to the House from the Senate, may possibly be reached and passed. The Texas Debt bill will probably go over. The Canadian reciprocity treaty is yet under consideration. The proposition to place ten million dollars in the hands of the President, nominally to maintain the honor and interests of the nation in the Spanish trouble, remains to be acted on. Altogether we expect an unusually lively time at the capital during the next four days.

MYSTERIOUS.—The Mount Joy Herald says, that on Saturday, July 1st, between Highspire and Harrisburg, the engineer upon one of the locomotives beheld something lying on the track. He stopped the engine within a few yards of the object, when what was his astonishment and that of the passengers to behold a pair of black haired, beautiful little twins—a girl and a boy, neatly dressed—and asleep. How they came there is a mystery. To suppose they were put there to be destroyed is revolting, inhuman. A gentleman on the cars became interested in the pretty children, and took them home with him to raise them.

The Nebraska Question.

For many years past few journals have been more popular with the Whig party, particularly of the Northern States, than the Louisville Journal. The bitter but often witty flings of PRENTICE at Democratic men and measures, have at one time or another found a place in the columns of perhaps every Whig paper in the land, and been eagerly quoted and endorsed by the rank and file of that party. At the outset of the Nebraska agitation, the Journal opposed the new bill mainly on the ground of the danger of its renewing a bitter sectional strife, but it now bitterly denounces the absurd project of repealing it, and concludes an article on this subject with the following unanswerable argument in favor of the bill itself, which the old admirers of the Journal's sayings will do well to ponder on:

"And, after all, the main principal of the Nebraska bill is certainly in itself right. We do not see how any man of good sense, who examines the subject, can come to any other conclusion. We can see no reason why the general government should say that the people living on one side of the parallel of latitude shall have the privilege of deciding for themselves whether they will have a certain institution or not, but that the people on the other side of the parallel shall not have that privilege. Such a discrimination appears to us to have no foundation in justice, reason, or common sense. We cannot but regard it as odious and wrong. Give to the people of all territories the power to choose their own institutions, or give it to none. We should almost suppose that the northern people would have too much sectional pride to be willing even to submit to the discrimination which they advocate. How can northern folks reconcile it to their feelings that northern folks should'nt have the same privilege of self-government as southern folks—that persons living north of thirty-six thirty, should be denied powers freely exercised by all persons south of thirty-six thirty? When before was it known that the people of any portion of the country contended zealously for a denial of their own section of powers, privileges and rights, belonging to other sections? Will our northern friends do us the favor to bestow a thought or two, and a word or two upon this view of the subject."

Whom they would Proscribe.

It is understood that by the tenets of the "Know-Nothing" associations their members are sworn not only to proscribe all foreign born citizens, but all catholics, wherever they may have been born. Now, there are thousands and thousands of people in this country, of the catholic religion, who were born upon the soil, hundreds of whose forefathers fought in the revolution, and who, many of them, were themselves soldiers in the last war with Great Britain and in the Mexican war—American by birth and patriots by impulse. All these "Know-Nothingism" would proscribe, disfranchise, ostracise, together with all adopted citizens, no matter what their religion!

What a monstrous, anti-christian, anti-American organization must this be. No wonder its members make their connection with it a profound secret. No wonder their meetings and all their proceedings are shrouded in darkness. Democratic Union.

Horrible Murder of a Wife by her Husband.

The neighborhood of Albermare street and Eastern avenue was thrown into consternation, about ten o'clock on Sunday night, in consequence of cries of murder proceeding from the house of Henry. Weighorst, located in the corner of these thoroughfares. As soon as the cry was made, in an instant the room from which the cry proceeded was lighted up, and it was supposed by those outside that the house was securely fastened, and several persons then started for axes, that it might be broken in. At this juncture of the affair, the door was opened by Weighorst, and a woman enveloped in flames rushed into the street. She threw herself into the gutter, but there being but little water it did not quench the fire. Several females who were near by, attracted by her cries, went to her assistance, and after a time succeeded in tearing off her clothing, but her hands, face and body was burned in the most horrible manner. Her body from her hips to her shoulders, head, arms and hands were perfectly skinned by the action of the fire.

It appears that a short time before the occurrence of this tragic scene, Weighorst, in company with Mr. John Wells, entered his house and ordered his wife to bring out some brandy. Not moving as briskly as he desired her, he commenced a tirade of abuse, in which he accused her of incontancy. Stung by such a charge against her in the presence of a comparative stranger, she retorted, when her husband seized hold of the burning lamp, containing nearly a half pint of atherial oil, and threw it at her head. The lamp broke and the clothing of the unfortunate woman being saturated with the liquid, she was in an instant wrapped in flames. She was taken into a house opposite, physicians called, and in a short time Drs. Kimmemon, Handy and McWilliams appeared and did all they could to alleviate the sufferings of the wretched woman. It was found that a portion of one breast was entirely destroyed, and the whole body completely crisped. Mr. Wells, in attempting to put out the fire on the clothing of the woman was seriously burned on the hands and arms. She charged her husband with the offence, whereupon he was arrested and Justice Dorman summoned to take her declaration, as it was supposed she would expire in a short time. She declared that on the previous night her husband threatened to take her life, and on that occasion threw several glass bottles and a heavy iron weight at her head. Upon the testimony of the wife Weighorst was taken to the middle district watch house and thence to the jail to await the result of the tragedy he began. He has for several years been engaged in the grocery business, has accumulated an independence and was very much respected by those who knew him. So popular was he with his own countrymen that a short time since a new German military company was organized, of which he had been chosen the commander.

Mrs. Weighorst died at five o'clock yesterday afternoon, after nineteen hours of the most intense agony. She stated before her death she did not desire to live, as her husband had treated her very harshly for two or three years, and though she made repeated propositions for separation, he never would consent to it. She is represented by her neighbors to have been a very thrifty and industrious woman, and has frequently had the whole control of the business of her husband. Coroner Goldsmith held an inquest upon the body, when the jury returned a verdict that she "came to her death in consequence of being burned with oil contained in a lamp thrown at her by her husband."—Baltimore American.

A Wolf in Sheep's Clothing.

Some four weeks ago there arrived in this city, and engaged apartments at Barnum's Hotel, a young and unprotected female, who called herself Elizabeth Bushnell, arrayed in the peculiar costume of the Shaker community of New Lebanon, N. Y. Whatever her personal attractions may have been, we must leave to conjecture; if she was not "passing fair," she was believed to be so, though, of course, the most exquisite personal charms are somewhat marred by the eccentricities of Shaker "habits of whatever sort. It was enough, however, to engage the sympathies of the excellent host, Mr. McLoughlin, that an unprotected female was in his house, and appealing to him for direction in a trying emergency. She had recently escaped from the community above named; had evaded designs upon a large property to which, in a short time, at her majority, she was to come in possession.

She had an uncle in the community who would spare no efforts to discover her whereabouts, but she had also a lover in Shakerdom, who would himself, in a short time elude the vigilence of his brother celibates, escape the bondage of his tribe, and fly upon the wings of love to her and matrimonial delights. Till then the hopeful maiden resolved to wear her Shaker dress, and it is quite probable our citizens may have seen the quickfooted Elizabeth upon our streets, or in one of McClintock & Eaton's very best coaches, paying her visits upon the little preliminary business anticipative of the nuptial hour. Upon her arrival, she confided to the host a package of money, which she desired to be safely kept until her departure.

In the meantime, she had provided herself with a number of dresses of the choicest material and style; she has been quite a favorite with the ladies of the house, and, in the enjoyment of their confidence, freely given to one so peculiarly situated, she had familiar access to their apartments. In the name of one lady she purchased a gold chain, and presented it to the housekeeper as an appendage to a gold watch which the housekeeper already possessed. As an aid to the management of her affairs, legal advice was called in, and Mr. S. Taggert had the honor of waiting on the lady as her solicitor, her choice, no doubt, being partially influenced in this case by her good taste.

Suffice it, that for four weeks the Shaker lady has been a feature at Barnum's; has distributed her favors quite freely in the community; has patronized the best establishments, and of course vindicated her gentility by invariably taking the air in McClintock's and Eaton's handsomest coaches. The most interesting feature of the whole affair however, was reserved for last Saturday, on which day the fugitive swain from New Lebanon was to arrive, the queer foggery of Shakerdom was to be put off forever, the bridal robes were to be put on, and the happy pair, the nuptial benediction said, were to be inaugurated into the fulness of those joys so cruelly interdicted by the anchoretical community from which they had escaped. The eve of the important day had come, the weather was intensely hot, and the lady quietly left the house for a stroll. She never came back. The denouement is with the reader. Perhaps it may aid conjecture to say, that the Shaker swain had not arrived, that the bridal feast to which all the guests of the house were invited has proved the vanity of all sublunary hopes. The packages of money securely deposited in the private safe, has been opened, and that also has seriously impaired the faith of the excellent host in external evidences of things not seen. Sundry garments, after the fashion of this world, have come to the house since the departure of Elizabeth, but they have returned to the hands of those whose dexterity shaped them "to order."

One of the unkindest cuts consists in the fact that before she left she borrowed the housekeeper's watch, and that gold chain she had presented to her, in the name and at the expense of a lady in the house, and forgot to return either the watch or the chain in the precipitancy of her retreat. It is hardly necessary to say that the police in various quarters are put upon the qui vive respecting the lady's whereabouts; and it is to be hoped, for the relief of that general sympathy with so adroit an adventurer, that success may attend their efforts.—*Bal. DISTRESSING AFFAIR.—On last Monday afternoon, a young lady, aged about 18, daughter of Mr. John M. Webb, of Norfolk, was killed by a ball from a pistol fired by a Mr. Howe, a relation of the young lady. The Norfolk Argus gives the following particulars of the melancholy occurrence:—Miss W. was on a visit to the family of Mr. Brown, on Washington Point, and at the time mentioned a Mr. Howe took a pistol with two barrels, only one of which, as he erroneously supposed, was loaded. This he fired in the yard. Then putting on percussion caps, he returned to the house, in which were Miss W. and others, and pointing the pistol at some of those present, pulled the trigger and discharged several caps without doing harm; but on pointing it towards the lady mentioned, one of the barrels was discharged, lodging a ball in her neck, inflicting a terrible wound just above the collar bone, on the left side, and she fell to the floor, bleeding most profusely, and died in a few hours after.

KILLED BY LIGHTNING.—We learn that during the thunder-storm of Wednesday afternoon, a house near Tonawanda was struck by lightning, and four of the inmates, a mother and three daughters, were killed. The information came to us through a gentleman who obtained it of a German, and was unable to give us the names of the sufferers or any further details.—Buffalo Democracy.

Important news for the Invalids of Albany!

PULVERMACHER'S HYDRO-ELECTRIC VOLTAIC CHAINS,

A New, Novel, and strictly Scientific Mode of applying Electro-Magnetism for the Instant Relief and Permanent Cure of all NERVOUS DISEASES,

Is for the first time introduced to the people of Albany and vicinity. We know that there is too much good sense among the inhabitants of this place to desire a long, unmeaning, extravagant advertisement; hence we shall simply give you a history of the Chains, and the success they have had in curing within the last year, NERVOUS DISEASES.

Pulvermacher's Electric Chains were first used in France, three years since, where the success that attended their use, soon attracted the attention of the FIRST MEDICAL men in Paris, who took pains to give them a still further trial, and recommended their adoption in the different Medical Colleges of that Kingdom. Within the last two years they have been introduced in Germany, Austria, Prussia, Belgium and England, where they soon became the most popular article for the INSTANT RELIEF AND PERMANENT CURE of that class of diseases called Nervous.

One year since they were introduced into the United States, and can now be found in all the principal cities in the Union. It is necessary to speak at length of their great success and unparalleled sale, wherever they have been introduced. It is sufficient to state that they are highly recommended by Professor Mott, Van Buren, Post and Carnochow, of New York, and also in daily use in every Hospital in that city. $1,000 dollars will be given to any person who will produce so many well authenticated certificates of cure, from intelligent patients and scientific physicians, of the following diseases, as may be found in a pamphlet of 36 pages, to be had (gratis) of the only agents in Albany, DEXTER & NELLAGER.

Painful and Swelled Joints	Palpitation of the Heart
Rheumatism	Neuralgia of the Face
Pains in the Back	Nervous Headache
Deafness, Blindness	Dyspepsia, Indigestion
Pains of the Liver	General Debility
Nervous Cough	Female Diseases
Tooth Ache	Prolapsus Uteri.

It is not strange that the application of Electro-Magnetism will instantly relieve pain, wherever located, more quickly than opium or any of its compounds—for it is based upon the true theory of the origin of pain—a lack of the nervous fluid, which the Chains supply, by being applied over the parts affected—after first being moistened with common vinegar, which is the only preparation necessary.

The common sense of the people all over the country is awakening, and they have concluded that they will no longer make drug shops of their stomachs, or be guilty of swallowing the miserable, disgusting nostrums that are thrust before the public.

RHEUMATISM, that common disease of this climate, can be almost INSTANTLY relieved of its pain—and a permanent cure produced by simply applying a chain of 18 links for a few days, a few hours each day.

PROLAPSUS UTERI.

More than one hundred cases of this disease have been cured within the last year, that had baffled every other mode of treatment, by wearing a 30 link chain for a few weeks, by attaching one end upon the spine and the other on the abdomen. After a simple application the worst symtoms disappear, and the patient soon gains flesh and strength. I do not know of one single instance that has not been greatly benefitted, if not permanently cured.

ONE WORD OF CAUTION TO THE LADIES.—Ladies who are ENCIENTE, are requested to wear them only for a few moments at each application, for by long and frequent use MISCARRIAGE is often produced.

JOSEPH STEINERT, General Agent,
Broadway, New York.

Agent:—Dr. F. C. REAMER, Bedford, Pa.

Bedford Academy
AND
REV. JOHN LYON, PRINCIPAL.
W. W. CAMPBELL, A. B.,
Associate Principal.

THE first session of the fourth school year of this Institution will open on the first Monday of September, 1854. The postponement has arisen from the desire of the Principal to commence and prosecute the studies of the school year in the most vigorous manner and with the corps of Instruction unbroken. Mr. W. W. CAMPBELL, who has been associated as Permanent Assistant in the Academy, cannot be present until the time fixed upon; and the Principal feels that his own health requires the fullest vacation that circumstances will justify.

The present school year opens auspiciously. The Principal looks forward with confidence, under God's favor, to its efficiency and success. With enlarged experience and invigorated health, with the Teacher of his choice, who has already commended himself to the attachment and confidence of this community, and with a corps of students already drilled and animated with some generous enthusiasm for knowledge, he hopes fully to sustain the high estimation in which his fellow-citizens have been pleased to regard this school of learning. The studies of the advanced class will cover a good part of the Junior and Senior Course in our best Colleges. No pains will be spared to develope the intellect and perfect the scholarship of the Juvenile Classes. While memory is cultivated, and accuracy of recitation enforced, where set words are important, it is our guiding principle, that the great object of Education is to teach the young mind how to think, and to express in suitable language what it thinks. We ever keep in view that "the repetition, parrot-like, of the words of the school book, by the pupil, evinces neither his knowledge of the subject nor his power to enunciate it; and much less do the monosyllabic answers to a fixed set of questions."

If practice upon this principle gives the Teacher more labor, it will ensure him a higher reward and the Pupil a thousand-fold more benefit.

During the past year an Astronomical Apparatus has been procured, at a cost of $60.

Seperate entrances and seperate seats are appropriated to the Male and Female Departments.

It has long been a Desideratum with the Principal to introduce a thorough and scientific study of vocal music as a part of the Academic Course. It will now take its place by the side of Grammar and Arithmatic as a daily recitation. We hope to wipe off that reproach for Deficiency here which lies so justly against most of the Schools and Academies of England and America. No extra charge for this study will be made during the present school year.

No Pupil received for less than 1 quarter.

Terms per quarter, as usual, to wit:

CLASSICS,	$6 25
HIGHER ENGLISH,	5 00
MIDDLE "	4 50
ELEMENTARY "	4 00

CELEBRATED GERMAN BITTERS,

Prepared by

DR. C. M. JACKSON,

No. 120 Arch Street, Philadelphia.

Their power over the above diseases is not excelled, if equalled, by any other preparation in the United States, as the cures attest, in many cases after skilful physicians had failed.

These Bitters are worthy the attention of invalids. Possessing great virtues in the rectification of diseases of the Liver and lesser glands, exercising the most searching powers in weakness and affections of the digestive organs, they are, withal, safe, certain and pleasant.

READ AND BE CONVINCED.

Strong Testimony in favor of Dr. Hoofland's celebrated GERMAN BITTERS, prepared by Dr. JACKSON, No. 120 Arch Street, Philadelphia; the great remedy for Liver Complaint, Dyspepsia, Nervous Debility, &c.

Hatch & Broomhall, W. Chester, Pa., 1850, said: "The general satifaction expressed by those who have used Hoofland's German Bitters, is, perhaps unparalleled; some think it worth its weight in gold."

Abel Turrel, Montrose, Pa. Feb. 7, 1852, said: "Your German Bitters have gone off very rapidly. I have sold about half a dozen to a very respectable Baptist Clergyman of my acquaintance, who attributed his restoration to health to the use of these Bitters.

C. E. Lathrop, Tunkhannock, Pa., May 25 1851, said: "Almost any number of certificates can be obtained from some of the best men in this section as to the efficacy of the German Bitters, should it be deemed advisable. It is a medicine that emphatically recommends itself, and in every instance has produced a good report."

A. B. Kaufman, Lancaster, April 30, 1850, said: "I have been for a series of years afflicted with Dyspepsia, Inactivity of the Liver, and Nervous Debility. My mental powers have been so reduced as to render me quite unfit for the transaction of any kind of business. After consulting many eminent physicians, and using their prescriptions, and after using the most popular remedies of the day, supposed to be applicable to my case, I always failed to have a permanent relief. A friend, with much pursuasion, induced me to try a bottle of your celebrated Bitters. I have used one bottle, and this day commmence the second. I can, with cheerfulness, state that it has happily improved me. My appetite and spirits have astonishingly improved, and I begin to feel as though I had grown (suddenly) ten years younger; and really, I am almost prepared to say that I now consider myself calculated for any business, while, ten days ago, I would have as soon undertaken to square the circle as to have attempted it."

CARTER'S SPANISH MIXTURE.

THE GREAT PURIFIER OF THE BLOOD.

Not a Particle of Mercury in it!

AN INFALLIBLE REMEDY for Scrofula, King's Evil, Rheumatism, Obstinate Cutaneous Eruptions, Pimples or Pustules on the Face, Blotches, Boils, Chronic Sore Eyes, Ring Worm or Tetter, Scald Head, Enlargement and Pain of the Bones and Joints, Stubborn Ulcers, Syphilitic Disorders, Lumbago, Spinal Complaints, and all Diseases arising from an injudicious use of Mercury, Imprudence in Life, or Impurity of the Blood.

This valuable Medicine, which has become celebrated for the number of extraordinary cures effected through its agency, has induced the proprietors, at the urgent request of their friends, to offer it to the public, which they do with the utmost confidence in its virtues and wonderful curative properties. The following certificates, selected from a large number, are, however, stronger testimony than the mere word of the proprietors; and are all from gentlemen well known in their localities, and of the highest respectability, many of them residing in the city of Richmond, Va.

F. BOYDEN, Esq., of the Exchange Hotel, Richmond, known every where, says he has seen the Medicine called CARTER'S SPANISH MIXTURE administered in over a hundred cases, in nearly all the diseases for which it is recommended, with the most astonishingly good results. He says it is the most extraordinary medicine he has ever seen.

C. B. LUCK, Esq., now in the city of Richmond, and for many years in the Post Office, has such confidence in the astonishing efficacy of CARTER'S SPANISH MIXTURE, that he has bought upwards of 50 bottles, which he has given away to the afflicted. Mr. Luck says he has never known it to fail when taken according to directions.

Dr. MINGE, a practising Physician, and formerly of the City Hotel, in the city of Richmond, says he has witnessed in a number of instances the effects of CARTER'S SPANISH MIXTURE which were most truly surprising. He says in a case of Consumption, dependent on the Liver, the good effects were wonderful indeed.

Still another Cure for Scrofula.—I had a very valuable boy cured of Scrofula by Carter's Spanish Mixture. I consider it truly a valuable medicine. JAMES M. TAYLOR, Conductor on the R. F. & P. R. R. Co., Richmond, Va.

Salt Rheum of 20 years Standing Cured.

Mr. JOHN THOMPSON, residing in the city of Richmond, was cured by three bottles of Carter's Spanish Mixture, of Salt Rheum, which he had nearly 20 years, and which all the physicians of the city could not cure. Mr. Thompson is a well known merchant in the city of Richmond, Va., and his cure is most remarkable.

WM. A. MATTHEWS, of Richmond, had a servant cured of Syphilis, in the worst form, by Carter's Spanish Mixture. He says he cheerfully recommends it, and considers it an invaluable medicine.

EDWIN BURTON, commissioner of the revenue, says he has seen the good effects of Carter's Spanish Mixture in a number of Syphilitic cases, and says it is a perfect cure for that horrible disease.

WM. G. HARWOOD, of Richmond, cured of Old Sores and Ulcers, which disabled him from walking. Took a few bottles of Carter's Spanish Mixture, and was enabled to walk without a crutch, in a short time permanently cured.

THERE ARE FEW things which afford us greater pleasure than sitting down to write a notice of the celebrated Hoofland German Bitters, because we are fully conscious we are conferring a public benefit, and our heart tells us that by our notices many have been induced to take these Bitters, and been rescued from death by Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, &c., for the cure of which it is certain. It is prepared and sold only by Dr. C. M. Jackson, at the German Medicine Store, No. 120 Arch street, Philadelphia.

THE LUNGS.—The lungs are the most liable of all the organs of the human body to take disease, especially in the winter, owing to the cold and variable state of the weather, which causes obstructions of the skin; the humours are driven in upon the internal organs, hence coughing and shooting pains in the breast are experienced. To any afflicted in this way, we would in the way of salutary advice say, buy Dr. Keyser's Pectoral syrup. Take it according to directions, and you will get well.
